Video Highlights

In this episode of MSC's Tooling Up, Toni Neary is joined by Mark Cangemi, Fall Safety and Confined Spaces Training Specialist at Honeywell for a discussion on several of Honeywell's new fall safety solutions such as the GlideLoc, Vi-Go, and Saf-T systems that comply with OSHA's newest fall safety regulations.

The conversation focuses on the significant changes in regulatory compliance for fall protection systems on fixed ladders, especially since the 2017 update of OSHA regulations. Mark emphasizes the need for effective fall protection solutions, given the documented incidents where traditional methods like cages proved ineffective.

Mark introduces various innovative products from Honeywell designed for ladder safety climbing systems, including the Miller GlideLoc® system, Saf-T-Climb system, and Vi-Go Ladder safety climbing system. He explains the advantages of these systems in providing effective fall protection while ascending and descending fixed ladders. Additionally, he discusses the top ladder bracket with SRL (self-retracting lifeline), showcasing the versatility and compliance benefits these innovative solutions offer.

Throughout the episode, the emphasis is on not only the hardware innovations but also Honeywell's commitment to support and installation services, ensuring comprehensive safety for workers.

This unique episode of Tooling Up provides valuable insights into Honeywell's innovative solutions that enhance workplace safety across any industry where you'll find a fixed ladder. With major changes coming from the newest OSHA fixed ladder safety regulations, this is an episode you don't want to miss.
