ASSP Safety 2019 Video: Justifying Safety ROI

| Jun 11, 2019

Video Highlights

- Being able to document safety investments can be challenging for a safety manager, but it's necessary so that a business can justify the expenditures.
- There are many factors beyond the hard costs of a product that a business should consider.
- Ultimately, cost savings documentation can help not only justify investments but also improve overall safety.

Sometimes a business might find that competing projects bring safety investments into question. But a third-party assessment can help safety chiefs identify all costs and opportunities to reduce expenditures while also reducing risk.
